Introduction

Referees are an integral part of football and we must ensure that we are well prepared prior to our return to play. This 'Safer Return To Play - Match Day Protocol' provides guidance and direction to match officials on how to manage the administration and the refereeing of games. The 'Laws of the Game' provide referees with all the necessary authority to deal with all on-field issues, whilst other matters should be reported to the leagues who run the competitions.

The primary aim of this protocol is to minimise risk of transmission of the COVID-19 virus to as low a level as possible. The principles of risk mitigation are identical for training and for refereeing. This protocol must be followed in conjunction with all FAI Protocols which can be found here

All guidelines are underpinned by the principle that individual referees should only engage with practices that protect their health and safety as they return to refereeing in line with Government and HSE directives. We must take personal responsibility around our own health when making our decision to return to play.

The exact date of a return to play will be determined by the league you are assigned to and this will be guided by the Affiliate body and Football Association of Ireland. In the meantime, it is recommended that you continue to take some preparatory steps to be ready for a return to football.

Availability

- To facilitate the resumption of football it is important that referees advise the 'allocations officer' in their league and their Lead Observer of their availability.
- Some referees will be eager to referee immediately, whilst others may adopt a 'wait & see' approach. Whatever your choice is, it is imperative that you communicate this.
- When you return it is important to keep the 'allocations officer' in your league up to date with any changes in your circumstances and copy this to your Lead Observer.

Laws of the Game

- If your season is resuming its 2019/20 season, then the 2019/2020 Laws of the Game will apply to the matches in your league until the season concludes.
- If your season is starting its 2020/21 season, then the 2020/2021 Laws of the Game will apply.
- A full version of the 2020/2021 Laws of the Game can be downloaded from the following link LOTG
- Training will be provided by the Referee Department for referees that will be operating under the new laws.
